

Finding YOUR Right Career

Many of us have taken a job just because "that's what I've always done", "that's what I'm good at", or "that's where the money is." Yet it is not often that we take a step back and methodically test these assumptions, to see if other paths are both possible and might bring us more satisfaction. Knowing what you like to do, what you're good at, and where you want to go in life-- these are the keys to planning a career move that will be rewarding and "right" for you.

In this webinar, you will learn the steps you need to take to find career satisfaction. Specifically, through in-class exercises, you will learn:

- ✓ Three self-assessment exercises that you can start immediately, which will give you the self-understanding to make your next career move the right one.
- ✓ How to apply your assessment results, using a career decision-making methodology to decide between alternate job targets.
- ✓ Research resources to learn more about potential careers.
- ✓ How to write a "job-search marketing plan" that is key to a successful career change.

This workshop is targeted to anyone looking to make a career move, from undergrads trying to decide on a career to mid or late career professionals and executives looking to plan their next move.
